Missouri Army Base Awards Contract to Intellicheck Mobilisa

Port Townsend, WA – September 23, 2010: Intellicheck Mobilisa, Inc. (NYSE AMEX: IDN), a global leader in access control and wireless security systems, received a contract from the US Army at Fort Leonard Wood to provide them with the Defense ID access control equipment. The value of the contract is approximately $250,000 for equipment, software, installation, training and warranties.

Utilizing Intellicheck Mobilisa's patented ID reading technology, Defense ID quickly scans various forms of IDs, such as Drivers Licenses, Military ID's or Passports, and instantly compares the data to over 100 "bad guy" lists.

Intellicheck Mobilisa's latest Defense ID system, Fugitive Finder™, builds upon Defense ID's proven ID scanning ability, integrating live NCIC checks, similar to what police patrols perform during routine traffic stops. With this latest addition to the Defense ID system, Fugitive Finder puts an even greater security tool into the hands of the military police.

Fort Leonard Wood is home to the Maneuver Support Center of Excellence, which offers Basic Combat Training for most non-combat soldiers. Due its location in the Ozark Mountains, the base experiences harsh weather conditions in the summer and winter months, providing field training with extremes in heat, cold, wet and dry weather in rugged terrain.

In addition, the base is also home to the US Army Military Police School (USAMPS), training our nation's soldiers to be strong Military Police leaders. USAMPS is the premier training facility for the Army Military Police, preparing soldiers to perform their MP and law enforcement duties worldwide.

"We are very excited to add Fort Leonard Wood to our growing list of customers," said Dr. Nelson Ludlow, CEO of Intellicheck Mobilisa. "As one of our nation's premier training facilities, we recognize the importance of securing their facility to protect our troops and their families."
